Faculty Spotlight

John Burnett

Adjunct Instructor, BS in Leadership and Management

John Burnett is an adjunct instructor at the Division of Applied Undergraduate Studies (DAUS) and an NYU SPS alum. Having grown up dreaming of leading a global organization, he is now both a proud educator and global business professional who sees teaching as a way for him to help establish future business leaders and entrepreneurs.

“Real-life experiences enable me to bring a wealth of knowledge, skills, and successes into the classroom.”

Pierre Lacour

Clinical Associate Professor, AAS in Business

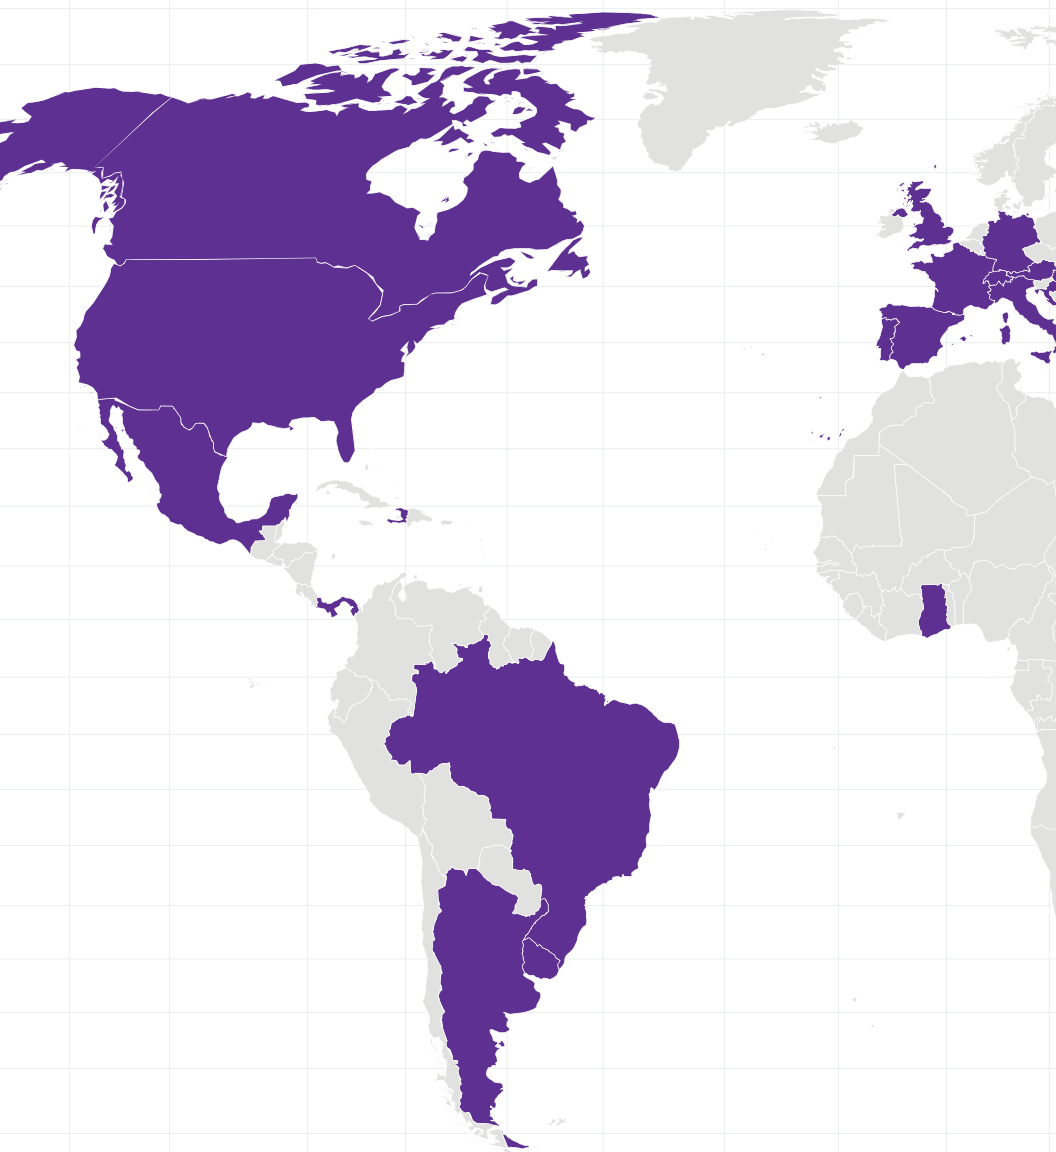

Pierre Lacour joined the Division of Applied Undergraduate Studies (DAUS) as the coordinator of Economics in 2009. He was drawn to NYU SPS by the opportunity to teach a diverse body of students, including both adults and traditional students.

“Do not hesitate to talk to your instructors and advisors about courses, and try to lay out with them a study plan that enhances your goals.”

Shaping Careers in the Heart of NYC

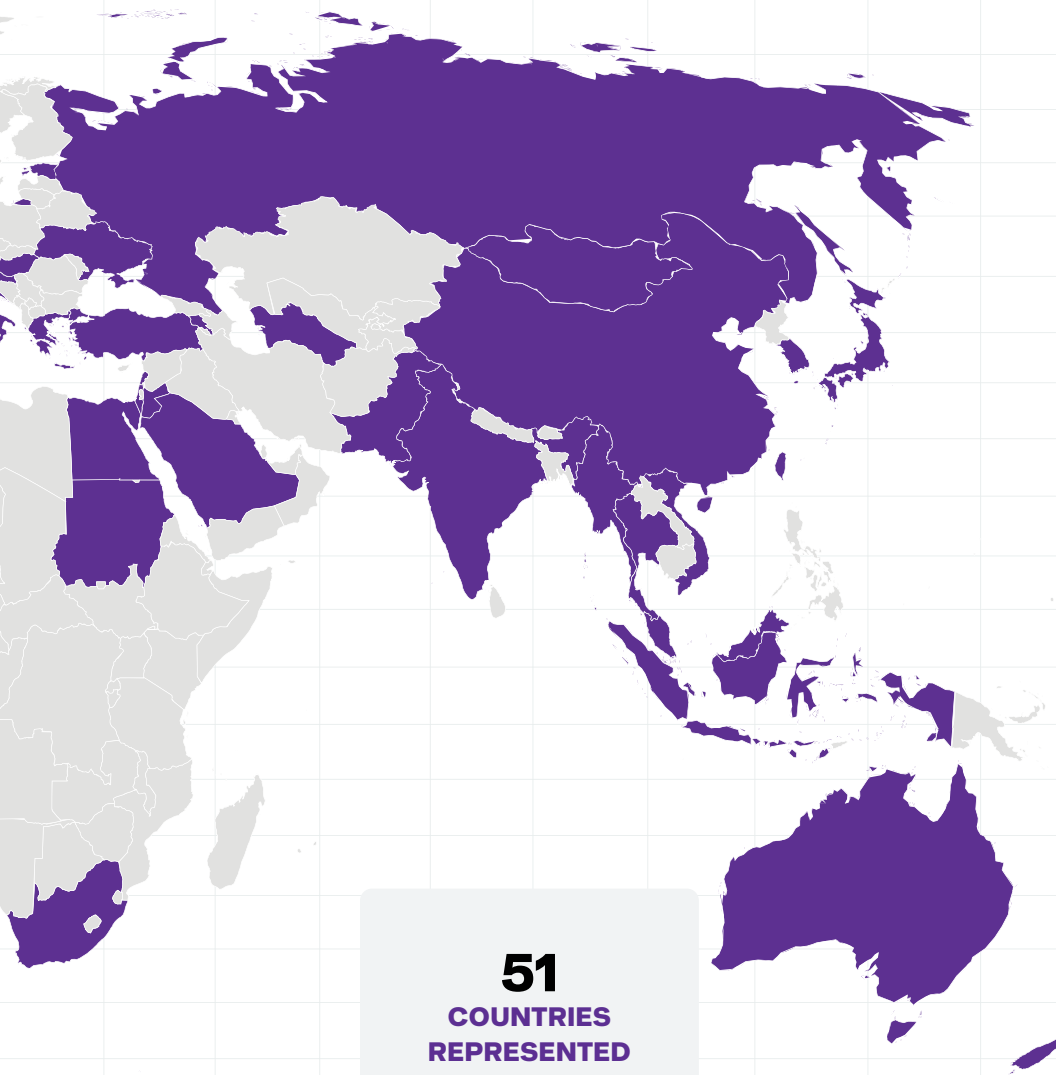

Whether you log on or walk into our classes, NYU SPS provides an education uniquely shaped by New York City. That means unprecedented access to today's top industries, along with programs that rapidly incorporate the latest issues, trends, and emerging technologies.

The Journeys After SPS

Faisal Fahad

BS in Information Systems and Technology '21

Faisal Fahad transferred from Nassau Community College to NYU SPS, earning a BS in Information Systems and Technology while working full-time. Inspired by faculty and research opportunities, he pursued graduate studies in computer science at Columbia University. His journey shows how determination and support can turn big dreams into reality.

"Professor Saravanos helped me to believe that nothing is impossible."

Aleksandra Artyfikiewicz

BA in Social Sciences '20

During her time at NYU SPS, DAUS alum Aleksandra Artyfikiewicz served as treasurer and vice president of the School's Undergraduate Student Council prior to receiving the Alpha Sigma Lambda Dean's Award her senior year. Artyfikiewicz utilizes the quantitative and qualitative analysis skills she developed at NYU SPS in her current market research career.

"My professors inspired me to dig deeper. They always related the material we studied to the real world. DAUS is an exciting place to explore perspectives from all over the world."

Career Development

The NYU SPS Wasserman Center for Career Development supports both students and alumni through in-person and online services designed to help them explore career paths, gain practical experience through jobs and internships, and equip them with tools and skills for professional growth. The Center's comprehensive offerings include:

- Individual and group career coaching sessions.
- Expert guidance on personal branding including portfolio website development, LinkedIn account optimization, interview strategy, and effective networking.
- Opportunities for industry engagement through field specific career fairs, employer information sessions, site visits and networking events.
- Robust collection of on-demand resources including career modules, industry guides, and more.

94% of 2024 undergraduate students were employed or in school six months post-graduation.

Student Life and Resources

NYU SPS undergraduate students have access to a full range of academic, career, and life support services at the university. We offer a variety of merit- and need-based scholarships, as well as grants based upon your financial circumstances. We also provide individualized counseling sessions to help you strategize the best way for you to finance your education.

In addition, the NYU SPS Wasserman Center for Career Development offers career coaching to students and alumni, providing personalized guidance on resumes, cover letters, interviewing skills, networking strategies, and more. The Center hosts various career-related events, such as networking mixers, industry panels, and corporate headquarters site visits.

Featured Voices in Focus

Wanda Bryce

BA in Social Sciences

With her concentration in Media Studies, Wanda Bryce is looking forward to gaining a comprehensive understanding of the media industry, specifically the entertainment and communication sectors. Bryce came to NYU SPS after hearing about the BA in Social Sciences program from her academic advisor at her previous institution.

"I quickly fell in love with the programs and the structure of the school. I chose DAUS (Division of Applied Undergraduate Studies) because the majors and programs aligned with my passion and academic interests."

Julia Anelli

BS in Leadership and Management Studies '24

Julia Anelli transferred from CUNY's Borough of Manhattan Community College to NYU SPS to pursue a BS in Leadership and Management Studies while working full-time and raising three children. A recent "Salute to Scholars" awardee, she's passionate about ethical business, financial planning, and helping others—especially young girls—build financial literacy.

"I vividly remember walking through Washington Square Park and observing what I believed were smart NYU students with opportunities beyond my comprehension. I wanted to be one of those students. I knew the DAUS program would fit my lifestyle as an adult learner."
